organized under the supervision of Dr. Vanita Dhingra (Assistant Professor). Four social work students participated in this program. Bal Sabha is a school event in which all children are given the opportunity to go on stage and showcase their talents by dancing or performing various cultural activities, which helps to discover children's hidden talents. With the permission and cooperation of their school's headmaster and teacher, social work students use this tool in community schools. During this process, the social worker first schedules the Bal Sabha programme. The social worker then gathers the children and teacher at the agreed-upon location and, if necessary, explains the rules of performance to the children. Then, using various techniques such as chit on name or random roll number, call children on stage and ask them to perform. This activity assists social workers in identifying children's hidden talents, bonding with one another, motivation, and initiative skills. During this process, the social worker is also able to identify the children's psychosocial problems. Finally, this activity teaches social workers how to work effectively with children, particularly those with diverse personalities. At the end social work students thanked to government school staff to cooperate with social work students in organizing various kind of activities to promote education and health.
